

Dear Willows,

I hope each and every one of you is well. I am missing seeing all your happy little faces each day but I want you to know that I am well and keeping busy and happy at home each day with my family. I know you are missing your friends and all the fun we have in the Willow room but don't worry we will all be together again soon. For now enjoy being with your families, get out in the sunshine in your gardens when you can and play lots and lots. I know how good you are at helping so don't forget to help Mammy and Daddy at home and to do what they ask you. I have put up some work on the website for you to do at home so you don't get bored. It's ok if you can't get it all finished, just do your best and maybe big brothers and sisters can help you or your parents when they have free time. Do lots of drawing and reading, practise your sounds and your tricky words and have lots of chats. Enjoy this time and play games and watch movies with your family. I look forward to hear about all the nice things you did with your families at home when we get back to school. I would love each of you to draw me a picture of anything you want and that would make me very happy. As I said to you on the last day of school together, you all are amazing little people, who I love being with everyday, who work hard at school and are kind and caring to each other. Keep filling your buckets and now what a great time to fill everyone in your family's buckets too! Everyday don't forget to say your special intention, something you are thankful for and to practice your hot chocolate breathing. These will help you feel happy inside. Stay safe and well my dears and you will be back playing with your friends and learning lots with teacher before you know it. Please tell Mammys and Daddys they are doing a great job and I look forward to seeing all of you before long.

Sending you all smiles and best wishes,

Ms.Bradley
